COMMUNITY BUILDERS

In another column of this paper appears the first of a series of sketches on the lives of men who have and are playing a prominent part in the building of Richmond.

What benefit do public spirited men derive from their efforts in community building? What is the incentive that drives these men on in spite of heavy odds and frequently a loss to their own business interests?

We believe that the majority of the men who devote a great deal of their time and efforts toward the establishment of a better city and community are driven on by no ulterior motive other than the love of creation. The love of creation is born in the small boy or girl and continues on through life. In some it is centered in a selfish gain of wealth, power or notoriety. In others it is a desire to help others and make this world a more pleasant place to live in.

The narrow gauged mind observing the work of great men in building a community often wonder and whisper rumors as to why that man is devoting so much of his time to things which upon the surface do not seem to do him much good.

If he is the type of man we have described above the pleasure in creating something that was better than he was before he took a hand, is all the pay he needs. In some men this desire for helping others has reached the point of almost being a fault. A fault in that he and his family suffer unnecessary hardships so that he can carry on his community work.

Richmond is fortunate in having men who are willing to give of their time, efforts and money with no other gain in view than to see a better city grow here.

It would not be fair to name any particular organization or a particular leader. Every lodge, every church, every organization which has as its objective, the creation of a "better place to live in" might well be included in this series of sketches.

All of us cannot be leaders. But we can do a little thinking on our own part and help the thing along in our own way. The man who labors at manual labor from sunset to keep his family fed and his home together, can do as much in his own way to make Richmond better, as can the banker, who loans that man enough money to build a home of his own.

In some respects Richmond faces a problem. Many of those who make their living in Richmond do not make their homes here. That is indeed unfortunate. Not so much for Richmond as for the man who takes the money out of Richmond to support his family in another city.

It is true we do not have as many shows and amusements here as are afforded in the larger surrounding cities, but we do believe that it is a great deal easier to go into a large neighboring city for our amusement (if that is necessary) than to act as a parasite upon the community building of a city after admitting by continuing our work here that we find it the best place to work in.

THE MOST IMPORTANT ASSET TO A TOWN IS A GOOD HOTEL. IN THIS DAY AND AGE WHEN PEOPLE ARE TRAVELING AND SEEING RICHMOND FIRST—THE CITY OR TOWN THAT HAS GOOD HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS IS REMEMBERED AND THE MESSAGE "YES, THAT TOWN HAS A WONDERFUL HOTEL" IS CARRIED TO THE FOUR CORNERS OF THE CONTINENT—SO, MR. CITIZEN, GET BEHIND YOUR HOTEL AND PUT IT OVER WITH A BANG.

MR. JOHNSTON IS IN THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Henry A. Johnston

Editors Note:

This is the first of a series of sketches of public spirited men and community builders of Richmond. Our purpose is two-fold—that individuals who have given their time and ability for the purpose of the community may be given recognition, and that such recognition may encourage others to think and act the part of community builders.

A thoroughly responsible and active citizen who has worked unceasingly for every interest that would add to the unbuilding of the community in which he lives as well as the county at large, and who has been able to contribute some share to the sum total of forces making for the good of the community of Richmond is Henry A. Johnston, well known pioneer insurance man and active civic worker.

Moving with his parents when a small boy to Marin county, California, he was raised on a ranch and received his early schooling in that county. At the age of eleven years he was left an orphan and an elder brother placed him under the care of S. M. Martin, a well known rancher of Two Rock Valley, near Petaluma, where he worked hard for his board and the privilege of attending school.

At the age of seventeen years, he was held in such high esteem by his employer that the ranch was leased to him on shares, for a period of four years. He was highly successful with the ranch and dairy, saving his money and when the opportunity came, he entered the mercantile business at Rio Vista, which he conducted successfully for fifteen years.

Hearing of Point Richmond, then a struggling city, he came and investigated and was so impressed with the future possibilities of the young city that he sold his business at Rio Vista and came to Richmond with his family.

He built the first building on Macdonald avenue, a two story brick on the southwest corner of Second and Macdonald.

There is no man who has worked harder or more conscientiously for the betterment of Richmond than Johnston; at all times he has given of his time and money for civic advancement. As chairman of the Executive Committee of the Richmond Community Hotel, Inc., he has worked hard to make it a reality.

To him and the rest of the Executive Committee, which includes the best citizens of Richmond, also including 125 citizens who comprised the sales organization, the people of Richmond owe a debt of thanks. For these men serving without compensation, offering their time and money, buying stock on the same terms, as all citizens, all for the future development of Richmond.

Johnston has just recently retired from the presidency of the Chamber of Commerce. During his term of office many plans for the future development of Richmond have been inaugurated. He is one of Richmond's leading insurance men, with offices at Sixth and Macdonald avenue. He represents some of the biggest insurance companies in the world. Notably, Hartford, Firemen's Fund, Connecticut, North British and Mercantile, Northern Insurance Co., National Liberty and Fidelity and Deposit of Maryland.

Johnston is a director of the Mechanics Bank, director of the California Guarantee Building & Loan association, and a property owner of Richmond.

Like many more successful men in America, he rose from comparative property, on his own resources, to his present success and has the keenest sympathy for the needs of every section of the people.

His life has been an exemplary one, always doing his best for his community and his fellow men. His hobby is his large 361 acre ranch at Woodland, which is stocked with fine herds of Holstein cattle.

PHILADELPHIA DEVELOPS NEW BUS TO SOLVE ITS PROBLEM

Gas-Electric Type of Bus Is Found Cheaper in Upkeep By Philadelphia

By ROBERT SHAW

Reprinted from The Oakland Post-Enquirer by special permission. (Mr. Shaw was sent by The Oakland Post-Enquirer to investigate the city of the east and middle west where he made a thorough study of the best transportation services.)

Philadelphia Has Realized Importance of the Bus As a Factor in Fast City Transit

In one sense the motor bus situation in Philadelphia is more interesting and significant than anywhere else in the United States. A new kind of motor bus has been developed there to meet the special needs of city bus transportation.

The Philadelphia Rapid Transit company is just investing $3,000,000 at one stroke in this new type of motor bus.

More than 200 of these buses are now in operation on Broad street, Market street, Walnut street, Washington lane, Stenton street.

They are still being delivered and put in operation as rapidly as they can be made.

They represent a most distinct advance over the motor buses in use in any other city from the standpoint of speed, comfort and operating economy. These advantages offset the slightly higher first cost of this bus.

The Philadelphia Rapid Transit controls Philadelphia's transportation system, which includes L. lines, subways, surface trolleys and buses.

This concern is managed by the famous Mitten management, a subsidiary managing corporation which assumed control of the system when transportation in (Continued on Page 8)

Cardinal Mercier Hero of Belgium During World War Died Yesterday

Aged Cardinal Dies After Decline Following An Operation on December 29

(By Universal Service)

BRUSSELS, Jan. 23.—Cardinal Mercier, courageous in his struggle against death as he was in his defiance of the Germans when they invaded Belgium, died today.

The famous prelate, who was in his seventy-fifth year, succumbed to the effects of an operation performed more than two weeks ago for stomach trouble. He had made a valiant fight for life, but his strength failed him and he died without fulfillment of his last wish—that he might be taken to Malines the seat of his archbishopric, to die.

The cardinal died at 3:03 this afternoon, after a night of death agony.

Cardinal Mercier was born in November, 1851, at the small Chateau Du Castegier, outside Braine-L'Alleud, built by his grandfather, the mayor of the town. His father, Paul Leon, was painter of note and his mother bore (Continued on Page 8)

Clues Uncovered In Media Murder Of Pretty Girl

(By Universal Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—Three important developments followed close on each other today in the investigating of the slaying of Miss Anna May Dietrich, pretty Norwood girl, whose torso was found on Wednesday, in a clump of woods in Media.

They consisted of the finding of the head of the young woman, a description of the man who was seen placing the severed head under a railroad trestle at Beverly Hills, and the discovery of a piece of rag rug near the head, which bore blood stains.

This rug is thought to have been used to wrap up the things when it was transported from the place where Miss Dietrich was killed.

The head was found wedged in between two timbers under the railroad trestle by Magistrate J. J. Bolling. He had been taken to the spot by W. L. Lanning, a brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad, who has seen the man acting mysteriously about the trestle. Lanning was able to give a very good description of the man. The head had been cleanly severed from the body with what the coroner believe was a small knife, possibly a razor.

LABOR COUNCIL HAS DINNER AND DANCE PARTY

Organized labor was the subject of the speakers at the dinner and entertainment given last night at the Redmen's hall by the Contra Costa Central Labor Council.

The chief speakers of the evening were John L. Kerchen, Joe Marquet, Local 31, Cooks and Waiters, and T. J. Roberts Local 507, Stationary Engineers.

Roberts told the assembled group the conditions that existed twenty years ago among the engineers and what a great change has taken place through organized labor.

Kerchen spoke upon the subject of the organizing and the power and force necessary to the unions to combat the power and force of the reactions of different circumstances.

He told of the educating of the laborers and what it meant to the organizations.

Following the dinner and entertainment, which was attended by about 150 members and families, a social dance was staged. E. C. Rogers was in charge of the affair which proved a big success.

The following unions were represented at the dinner: Barbers, Bakery and Confectionary workers, Boilermakers, Butchers, Cooks, Waiters and Waitresses, Engineers, Fire fighters, Laundry workers, Moulders, Potters, Theatrical workers and Typographical workers.

Reprieve Given By Gov. Smith At Last Minute

(By Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Governor Smith tonight reprieved Ambrose Ross, convicted murder, until the week of February 15. This action was taken at the Hotel Biltmore following a brief visit paid the government by James L. Long, state superintendent of prison, District Attorney I. N. Edwards, of Nassau county, and Assistant District Attorney Wood. The reprieve stopped the execution of Ross for the third night in succession and upset thirty years of tradition. Ross now has escaped the electric chair at Sing Sing for the fifth time.

Although none of the authorities would admit that Ross had made a formal statement concerning the part he took in the conspiracy to hold up the first National Bank of Belmore Long Island in the course of which Ernest L. Whitman, a bond salesman, was shot and killed. The reprieve made it obvious that Ross had bargained for his life by "telling all."

As the result, four men who participated in the robbery, and whose identities were known only to Ross, may be arrested in the next few hours and charged with first degree murder.

Of the seven men who participated in the slaying and holdup three were caught. They were Ross, John J. Slattery and Stanley Kivana. Slattery was sentenced to death but was granted clemency last Wednesday by Governor Smith in the form of life imprisonment. Kivana is awaiting trial.

PINOLE LAYS CORNERSTONE FOR ITS NEW CIVIC CENTER

Structure for Library and Fire Department to be Finished By March 6

Impressive ceremonies yesterday afternoon marked the laying of the cornerstone of the new Pinole firehouse and library in the heart of the city, one block from the state highway. The new building is the first of a series of improvements which is being made for the Pinole Civic Center.

Father Charles Phillips, pastor of The Pinole Catholic church opened the corner stone laying ceremonies yesterday afternoon with a prayer. He was followed by C. F. Withrow, pastor of the Pinole M. E. church, who in a short address discussed the advantages to Pinole in the new improvements, which was started.

Dr. L. D. Clark, former pastor of the Pinole M. E. church and former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and father of the movement for the improvement of the civic center, assisted by J. F. Childs, contractor, laid the cornerstone. J. C. Rodgers, chairman of the building committee and Al Silvas, a member of the original Pinole Fire department, delivered appropriate addresses.

The Pinole band opened the services with the playing of the national anthem and presented appropriate airs throughout the ceremony.

Miss Alice G. Whitlock, county librarian gave a short address, in which she stressed the benefits to be derived from the new home for the library and the improvement of the library service, which is being planned.

It is expected that the new building will be completed by March 6, when the official dedication will be held. The old schoolhouse in that vicinity is to be improved as a part of the plan of the improvement of the civic center. It will be used for the meeting of the town trustees, a kindergarten and the Americanization classes. The tennis courts have recently been completed at the center.

NON-ENFORCEMENT

We are guided and governed by the eternal laws of justice and everyone, high and low, must obey them if we are to continue to live and prosper, according to Senator Guy D. Goff, of West Virginia, who writes convincingly in the National Republic under the title, "Guide Posts of Human Experience." Senator Goff says in part:

"There is no greater evil today than the non-enforcement by public officials of laws which they have sworn to uphold. It is not for an executive, state or federal, to ask whether a law is good or bad. He should enforce it, or confess failure and resign. Therefore, behind every public office stands a power which creates it, and to which it is responsible. That power under our form of government is the sovereign will of the people.

"No government can be maintained without a principle of fear as well as of duty. Good men will obey the latter; bad men will obey only the former. The underlying evil in the administration of our public affairs is simple dishonesty. Our public offices are too often held by dishonest men—and too often used for dishonest ends. The error is rooted in a mistaken and immoral theory as to the nature of the position they hold. In law and morals, a public office is but an agency of the people. They fix its duties and supply its salary. Few deny this truth, but practically it is contradicted every day in all parts of the Union. To have good government we must have good citizens—and always, continuously, a warfare without truce or quarter against those who violate the law. It is strange but true—that bad men are combined—and good citizens are divided—and that therein lies the cause of lawbreaking. If the good would join hands, the lawless could do nothing—because they constitute but a small porportion of the entire population. Burke's well-known words cannot be too often quoted: "There never was long a corrupt government of a virtuous people." When we find any self-governing people afflicted with misgovernment, we can safely believe that they do not deserve a better fate."

CREATOR OF THINGS

A question has arisen, as it has a habit of doing at this time of year, as to the person now living of most value to his country in the biggest, broadest sense. A statesman, a financier, an industrialist, an inventor, a preacher? There are not many statesmen around these times but it is possible that after a fitting time some alive may be accounted such. Of financiers and captains of industry there are not a few. Inventions have come thick and fast although in the last few years the inventions might be termed "betterments" as no basic invention has come to the fore of late.

It has been urged with show of reason that the most valuable person living to the United States is Luther Burbank of Santa Rosa, creator of new things out of the soil. This man with the supersight to see into the "seeds of time" made a statement at the beginning of the year relating briefly some of the things done in the last twelve months. Mr. Burbank is neither a utilitarian nor an idealist. His year's record deals with the useful and the beautiful. After twenty-six years of experimentation he has created a new flower. The whole world may thank him for that. But think what a time it took to do this. Here is a man who has the infinite patience of genius. It would have taken nature unaided as many centuries or as many thousands of years to do what he did in comparatively brief time.

Then we are informed that he has taken the

The Dutch Settlers Find a Home

After the discovery of the Hudson river by the man for whom it was named early in the Seventeenth century, the Dutch people began to want a colony in the New World. They were unwilling to allow the French and English to get all the wealth that they still believed was to be found in the new country.

They came to Manhattan and a little town, called New Amsterdam, grew up at one end of the island. The Dutch were a thrifty people and energetic workers. It was not long before they had established trading posts along the Hudson river. At these posts they became accustomed to barter with the Indians who brought them pelts from the north and the interior.

The Dutch were a tolerant people. Their government overseas was perhaps more free and tolerant than any other government of Europe at that time. Since they got along together rather well they drew colonists from all over Europe. Yet there was no real self-government. A governor with almost absolute power was kept at the colony by the home government.

Sometimes these governors were hard and arrogant and bound to make trouble. But for the most part there was peace.

A curious system grew up in this colony. Perhaps you have heard of it. It is called the patroon system. Under this plan any man in Holland who brought to the new land fifty settlers was given an estate of some size with frontage on the Hudson river. He was lord of the manor and enjoyed many privileges.

But the Dutch were surrounded by enemies. There were the Indians always to be considered and feared. Nor were the savages their only enemies. For the various colonies were themselves often at odds with one another.

Jealousy in trade and crops had much to do with the animosity of the early settlers toward one another.

This land held by the Dutch was some of the most valuable settled in this country. But they were not destined to hold it long. England saw to that.

His edible cactus is good for an amount as big as the greatest fortune in America and there are hundreds of additions to the stock of Burbank edibles and utilities. THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

'SATAN IN SABLES'

By Bradley King

Copyright 1925 Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"Satan in Sables" with Lowell Sherman is a picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Prince Michael Yervodoff, wealthy Russian philanthropist in Paris, tired of his useless friends and life, becomes interested in Colette, an unworshiped girl whom he protects from her Apache brother-in-law, Emile. But while Michael and Colette are picnicking, Emile disappears with his son, Billy, to whom Colette is devoted. Meanwhile, Michael's innocent brother, Paul, is roused for revenge by Dolores, one of Michael's cast-offs.

She had dressed sparingly in a one-piece lounging gown—a clinging, softish robe under which the nature roundness and firm curves of her body were revealed in that limpling, enticing half-revelment which is infinitely more provocative than pagan nudity. She knew the amorous value of dimly-lit, deep-colored lights, and of intense; when her trap was all set she lay back with studied luxury on a down-pillowed, silk-couch like a high priestess on the very altar of love.

She mused contentedly while awaiting the fly's buzzing approach. "Ah, Monsieur Michael, if you could but come to me. It is for you to remember, Michael, what is said about the Mills of the Gods—that they grind slowly, but exceedingly small. It is so!"

A servant announced Paul. Dolores noticed that he had admitted, then quickly stretched and relaxed herself—gown, and body, and pillows—into the pose of most tempting abandon. With Michael this preparation would never have been made. The man of the world had studied and his mood of the moment intrigued. But with a mere virgin boy, she would not make his mood in the fragrance of her hair and skin it dizzily to her own liking. Now!—a pat here, a touch there, a discreet titling—and so—Cleopatra on her Nile barge was never more alluringly circumscribed. Indeed, she was ready for the clinching stroke of her game against Michael.

Paul hurried in and stopped short in breathless, hushed confusion—awed, delighted, entranced. Then Dolores, his mood of the moment intrigued, she would not make his mood in the fragrance of her hair and skin it dizzily to her own liking. Now!—a pat here, a

Prodigal's Brother Is Sermon Theme

You have heard many sermons preached on the theme of the prodigal son who went away into the "far country," but you have not heard very many whose central theme was the prodigal's brother, who stayed at home in the "father's house." Rev. C. G. Lindemann, of Wesley Methodist church, is taking the prodigal's brother for his theme for this evening's sermon. He says there are some things we ought to know about this boy, and he will endeavor to point them out during his address at this service. A "Big Sing" and special music by the choir will precede the sermon.

COHAN COMEDY IS COMING TO OAKLAND HOUSE

With Henry Duffy starring in the title role, George M. Cohan's "The Song and Dance Man," a comedy of laughter and human interest, comes tomorrow night to the Twelfth Street (old Orpheum) theatre, Oakland, for a run of seven days under the local management of W. A. Rusco.

This is the attraction long looked for by local amusement lovers since reports of its record-breaking engagement at the Alcazar theatre, San Francisco, reached here. That Duffy himself decided to star in it has added to the interest. He has not been on tour in four years and his presence at the head of the cast makes the attraction the most notable of the season, according to Rusco.

"The Song and Dance Man" concerns the adventures in New York of "Happy Farrell," a small time vaudeville entertainer, who seeks a career in Gotham. He has become so accustomed to extending a helping hand to actors in distress that he continues the practice when he reaches New York. Penniless and facing starvation, he finds himself in a peculiar predicament, but one which enables him to aid an actress friend and incidentally himself.

The play is said to be lavishly produced. There are four acts crowded with fun and with an occasional heart throb. The company carefully selected by Duffy himself, is composed of the best players obtainable. It is said

"Dixie Handicap" Is Opening Today At the Richmond

"The Dixie Handicap," Reginald Baker's new production for Metro-Goldwyn, which is coming to the Richmond theatre today, is a screen version of a story called "Dixie" by Gerald Beaumont that appeared in the Red Book Magazine.

It tells how the lost glory of an aristocratic Southern family was brought back by a horse and the young man who trained her. Full of the most thrilling incidents imaginable, and also possessing an unusually beautiful love angle, the story makes perfect screen material. Waldemar Young, was the adapter of "The Dixie Handicap."

The cast includes such notable players as Frank Keenan as Judge Roberts; Claire Windsor as his daughter, Virginia; Lloyd Hughes as "The Dancin' Kid," who, in spite of his slangy title, is the hero; John Stampel in the villain role; Otis Harlan as a faithful darkey; Joseph Morrison, Otto Hoffman, Edward Martindel, Ruth King and others.

Other features on the same program include "Strong For Love," a roaring comedy; "Kinograms," world news events.

among whom are Robert Lowe, Mitchell Ingraham, Lovell Allen Taylor, Marion Sterling, Vivian Moore, Westlake Filmer, Ray L. Royce, David Call and others.

NOVELTIES ARE FEATURED ON CALIFORNIA BILL

An exceptional bill of novelties make up the big five-act bill of all headliner vaudeville which comes to the California Theatre today, in conjunction with the screen feature "Dixie Handicap." Featuring Zasu Pitts and Tom Moore, each and every act is entirely different with the "Spanish Night" perhaps the outstanding feature. This sextette of young artists from Europe specialize in strange instrument and some of the dances so symbolical of sunny Spain. Neatly costumed their offering is a pleasant relief from the stirring jazz of today.

Comedy, singing, dancing and some burlesque is indulged in by Miller and Babney. These globe-trotters have a reputation that is world-wide having appeared in every country with success. Comedy is the highlight of the offering with the diminutive duo and the Amazonian quartet. In contrast that leads to many funny situations.

"Weighted and Harmonized," the Christian Sisters and Burke are a delightfully entertaining trio who specialize in true syncopation and have included in their repertoire the songs you like to hear as well as some of the latest songs hit from the East.

Richmond and Ann with "Ventriloquist Variety" display many original stunts in that quaint and unique form of vaudeville. With some musical interpretation of his own compositions, Armend Wenzel, the young Xelophonist is sure to be a big favorite.

A picture which attracted considerable attention because of its lively theme, its director and its cast of gifted players, is "Pretty Ladies," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production. Monte Bell is directing this picture and Zasu Pitts, Tom Moore, Ann Pennington, Evelyn Tesman, Leonard Randolph, Helena D'Alay, Lucille LeSueur, Roy D'Arcy, Paul Ellis, Gwendolyn Lee and Dorothy Stratten portray the principal roles while Norma Shearer and Conrad Nagel, play in two brief but important parts in the picture.

The story, based on Adela Rogers St. Johns' Cosmopolitan Magazine story, centers around the romance of an unloved, plainlooking but fine-grained "Edith" comedienne of great popularity and an easy-going drummer. It is said to be bubbling over with good cheer, humor, pathos and originality.

Alice D. G. Miller wrote the screen adaptation. Other features on the same program include "Brotherly Love," a Cameo comedy; "Kinograms," Carl Richards California orchestra; Larry Canelo, at the organ.

Santa Fe Sues For Right of Way

A condemnation suit has been filed in the Contra Costa county superior court at Martinez by the Santa Fe railroad company against Santa Fe, Corcoran and 21 other property owners in South Richmond. The Santa Fe is seeking to condemn a right-of-way for a spur track to the new wharf now under construction on the Richmond inner harbor. Under the plan, the right of way would extend from the Santa Fe, Oakland branch line on a curve, crossing Cutting boulevard and running into Eighth street, near Portrero avenue. A right-of-way over Eighth street is being arranged for under an agreement between M. Emanuel of the Ellis, Landtag and Dock company and the Santa Fe which is expected to be signed shortly.

PRIVATE YACHT OF CZARINE IS TO BE SCRAPPED

By LAURA KNICKERBOCKER
(By Universal Service)

MOSCOW, Jan. 23.—Another relic of past splendor is being salvaged for the communal uses of the proletariat.

The private yacht of the former Czarina Maria Feodorovna, which has been abandoned and forgotten for nearly fifty years, is being wrecked for the old metal it will yield.

There is a severe metal famine in Russia this year, which prevents the government from carrying out its plan of providing the peasants with modern agricultural implements. Every available source of junk is being exploited. The old yacht will produce only about $40,000 worth of metal.

To hear that her yacht which was one of the seven day wonders of its epoch is being demolished by the Bolsheviks will probably stir strange memories in the breast of Maria Feodorovna, empress of Russia for thirteen years, and mother of Nicholas II the last Czar.

Terrible changes have been wrought during the lifetime of this old gentlewoman who is now ill and in exile in a villa outside Copenhagen, mourning the death of her sister, Queen Alexandra of England. Not so many years ago she mourned the murder of her only son and his entire family.

The old yacht was built in 1880 for a little trip of state by Alexander III and his youthful wife, Maria, from Odessa to Sebastopol, a matter of a day or so. Since the vindictive Maria Feodorovna was deeply afraid of sea-sickness, Admiral Popoff ordered a yacht built in English shipyards which would not rock her Majesty.

When this marine oddity was completed at a cost of $2,500,000 it was nearly round, about 230 feet long and 13 feet wide, with a displacement of 3,200 tons and it was guaranteed not to rock.

It was christened "Livadia" when it was brought from England it moved so slowly that it used three transports of fuel along the way. When at last the "Livadia" arrived at Odessa the future Empress was anxious to try out her new toy. But alas! The boat did not rock. The beautiful Maria did get sick.

That was enough. The "Livadia" was in disgrace and was never used again. This one little trip, which incidentally ate up 100 tons of coal, was the first and last time it was used to transport Her Majesty.

The expensive toy was taken ashore and forgotten. Now it will furnish plows for the peasants, and lathes for the factory workers of red Russia.

Butterflies Can Send Wireless Messages, Claim

(By Universal Service)

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Butterflies possess a power that enables them to broadcast wireless messages, according to Professor J. H. Fabre, the French scientist.

Professor Fabre isolated a female butterfly in a great steel box in his laboratory in Paris, many miles from the part of the country from which it was captured. That evening he found twenty butterflies fluttering around the box. Professor Fabre suggests that the many suitors were attracted by the electro-magnetic waves broadcast by the female.

Suzanne's Views On Marriage Do Not Meet Favor

(By Universal Service)

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Is marriage a handicap to sportsmen? Suzanne Lenglen's declaration in denying her reported engagement to marry, that "marriage and tennis do not agree," has raised the question here as to whether women can hope to continue sport and games with the same success after they wed.

The question was put to a number of men and women prominent in golf, tennis and other sports. Most of them agreed that while marriage does not interfere with a man's sports, it is a handicap to women.

Mrs. Lambert Chambers, the well known tennis player was one who took this view.

"Marriage after all," she said, "means home ties, a home to be looked after, and a home to be made for one's children. A woman has to put up with that, and as yet she does not think she can say which is the more preferable. The irony of it is that marriage does not affect a man to the same extent."

Mrs. Elliott-Lindsay, vice chairman of the Women's Athletic Association, took the opposite view. She said:

"Marriage is the highest thing any woman can look for and to-day modern conditions have brought such changes that a married woman can get through her housework in half the time it took women years ago. For that reason alone I maintain that marriage does not put a woman down or debar her from playing the games she loves. I can not see any reason why a married woman should not be the world's most famous tennis player or golfer. Personally I believe that many married women make a serious mistake in assuming that they cannot find time to play golf or tennis. They find time to go out to tea parties, to matinees and such things. They could easily play tennis games and more women should do so."

One distinguished woman golfer said that since her marriage she had not touched a golf club; another, equally well known declared that marriage had made no difference in her playing in championship matches.

No Demonstration can reveal all of BUICK Excellence

ANY time you drive a Buick you will wonder how such a remarkable car can be sold at such a moderate price.

In just a few minutes you will realize that you are starting, stopping, parking, driving with much greater ease and security. And that you are surrounded by quality and luxury which rank with the very finest.

But demonstration will tell only part of the Buick story, and you should know all of it.

A demonstration cannot show you the enduring stamina of body and chassis that belongs to Buick. Years are necessary for that. It can only suggest the powerful ability of Buick's 75 horsepower Valve-in-Head engine, built for hills. It cannot tell you how thoroughly the Buick "Triple Sealed" engine will protect Buick performance on dusty, gritty roads.

And it cannot even hint of the mental ease you will enjoy, with Buick Authorized Service "just around the corner," everywhere in America.

R.U.H.S. Five Takes One From Tamalpais Team

The same old story was repeated Friday night when the Richmond High school cagers trampled upon the Tamalpais high school 23-19.

Most of the basket work was done by Captain Ernest Barbieri. Blondy Villalobos and Rowdy Dyer had an off day at basket work and it was Ernie's night and he pilled them up in great style. He chucked nine points during the tussle.

Superior guarding of the bucket was shown by Bill Gualdoni who kept the Mill Valley men away from hole shots.

The locals showed some wonderful pass work, especially the long passes of Dyer and Villalobos.

Hill's cager kept a big lead on their opponents throughout the game and the winner was never in doubt.

Hill used the following line up: Dyer and Villalobos, forwards; O. Johnson, center; Barbieri and Milicevich, guards; Santella, Clark, Gualdoni and Thompson, subs.

Kelly-Springfield Cagers to Play El Cerrito Club Mon.

The Kelly-Springfield cagers will battle with the El Cerrito athletic club Monday night at El Cerrito, according to Manager J. Rossi of the athletic club.

The El Cerrito club has been playing a good brand of basket ball and expects to give the Richmond club a tough battle.

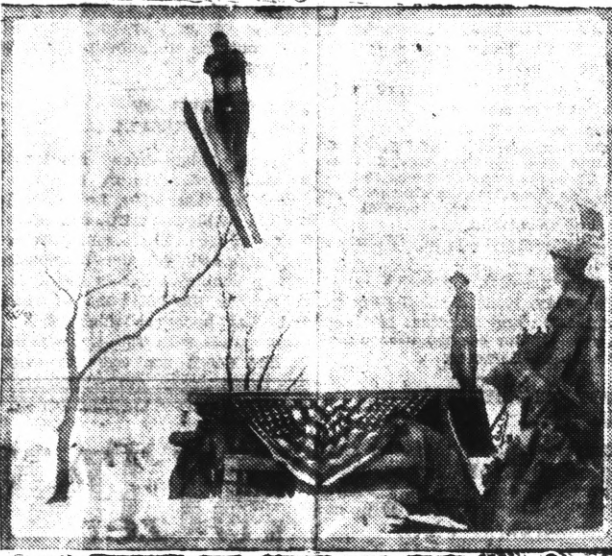

The Kelly-Springfield cage team is composed of: Bertoni and Gillians, forwards; Piers, center; Mino and Hannon, guard. The Springfield club took the Talis-Veris club of San Francisco at the junior high gymnasium two weeks ago, 24-17.

Boxing Permit Expected Soon

Manager Joseph Rossi of the El Cerrito Athletic club has announced that he expects to receive the verdict of the state boxing commission on his application for a permit to conduct matches at the club, early next week.

If Rossi receives the permit, fast and snappy boxing will be featured every two weeks, he states.

OLE JENSEN, SHOWING PERFECT FORM, WINNER OF SKI-JUMPING CONTEST IN METROPOLITAN DISTRICT

Jansen, Norway's great skier, demonstrated his skill when he won the Metropolitan skiing championship for the second successive year at Paterson, N. J. He defeated a field of 34, which included John Carleton of Manchester, N. H., former Dartmouth star. Jansen's longest single jump was 24 1-2 meters, or a little more than 78 feet. Jansen's control was almost perfect and he would have swept far ahead of his rivals with a better incline. For he has often cleared twice the distance with which he was credited in the championship.

BEARS ARE READY
Red Grange and his Chicago Bears have completed their training for the big game with the San Francisco Tigers, which will be staged today at the Kezar stadium, San Francisco. The Bears have played so many games now that practice is not as essential as rest. On the other hand the Tigers have been putting in hard practice since Monday, trying to get team work. Since Monday the Tigers have been concentrating on the back field.

U. C. BEATS SAINTS
California cagers took their game from the St. Mary's team at Oakland, Friday night, 27-12. The Saints were unable to get close enough to the backboard for hole shots. Although the score is one-sided, the Bears were forced to fight throughout the game. Bill Higgins, the California center, was star man with 17 points.

NEW BATTLE OF WATERLOO MAY RESULT SOON

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Another Battle of Waterloo is impending in London. Although the London County Council a few days ago decided in the face of strenuous opposition to tear down the historic Waterloo Bridge across the Thames and replace it with a modern one. The much-loved old structure is not yet irrevocably doomed.

Already notable groups of distinguished architects, civil engineers, art lovers and guardians of historic landmarks who have fought to save the bridge are marshaling their forces and the campaign to preserve Rennie's masterpiece will be carried before Parliament.

Under the battering of modern traffic Waterloo has sagged in the middle but its defenders contend that the bridge can be successfully underpinned, that repair and not reconstruction is what is needed and that under no circumstances should the design of the bridge be altered.

The present bridge has nine arches and is regarded by many as one of the most beautiful examples of architecture of its kind in the world, aside from its historical associations. Under the decision of the Council the new bridge would have five arches and be wide enough to accommodate six lines of vehicular traffic. Seldom has such a structure been the object of so heated a controversy. For nearly two years the fate of Waterloo Bridge has been debated. There is divergence of opinion among civil engineers as to the possibility of satisfactorily underpinning it. Basil Mott and the late Sir Maurice Fitzroy, who were consulted last year reported against. But other eminent engineers called in by the bridge's defenders believe that underpinning is entirely practicable.

Protests against the demolition of the bridge have been received from various parts of the world outside of England, especially from the United States where a number of organizations of architects have enlisted in the fight and sent protesting resolutions. Notable among these was one from the architects of Illinois.

In England the bodies who have led the "save old Waterloo" campaign include: the Royal Fine Arts Commission, the Royal Institute of British Architects, the Town Planning Institute, the Ar-

Three Basketball Games Are Played At Y.M.C.A. Gym

Three snappy basketball games in the Pioneer Division were played at the Y. M. C. A. gym yesterday afternoon. The comrade game for the evening between the Trojans and Francis Asbury clubs was forfeited to the Trojans. Through some mistake in schedule the Asbury club failed to show up.

The afternoon games were all good, but the best of the trio was the Shawnees against the Aztecs which resulted in a score of 15-14 in favor of the Aztecs.

With thirty seconds to play Moe of the Aztecs shot the winning bucket.

The line up for the game was: Shawnees—Angel, f.; Dunn, f.; Cook, c.; Angel, g.; Picton, g.; Wallin, sub.

Azecs—Scotfield, f.; Mayer, f.; Sutton, c.; McCoskey and McGuards.

The other two games resulted in the defeat of the Dan Boones in the hands of the Navajos 13-10. The Sam Houstona were walked over by the Putes 29-6.

The line-ups for the games were:

Navajos—Beard and Jatta, forwards; Pimm, center; Davis and Robinson, guards.

Dan Boones—Drexell and Sutton, forwards; Hill, center; McDowell and Smith, guards.

chitecture Club, the London Society and the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings. Waterloo Bridge is more than a hundred years old. It was being built at the time of the battle of Waterloo—hence its name—and was dedicated in 1817 by the Duke of Wellington on the second anniversary of that battle. BUILDING IN U. S. SAID TO BE INCREASING

Total building operations in the United States for the year 1925, approximately $6,500,000,000, according to the estimate made public yesterday by S. W. Straus & Co. based on official reports from 391 cities and towns. These figures compare with an estimated volume of $5,750,000,000 in 1924.

The Straus report covers 81 per cent of the cities and towns of the United States with a population of 8,000 or more. In these centers there was a volume of $4,451,959,840, compared with $3,740,791,496 in 1924, a gain of 19 per cent. In the 25 principal cities in point of building, operations totaled $2,761,070,793, a gain of more than 21 per cent.

Among the high spots of the year were the following:

Spectacular activities in the South where the heavy development program of Florida and the commercial activity throughout the Southland was reflected in a 50 per cent building increase over 1924.

A gain throughout the East of 19 per cent.

A substantial, well distributed gain in the great Central district, where the 1924 volume of construction, itself about 2 per cent below that of 1923, was exceeded by 15 per cent.

In the Pacific West a recovery of 6 per cent over 1924 and a return to the 1923 level of building.

The greatest December on record, 15 per cent above December 1924, following four full months of exceptional activity.

Sufficient volume of building already permitted for or contemplated to give definite assurance of a very high rate of activities for several months to come.

A year of relative stability in building costs with slight increases in building wages practically offset by moderate declines in the prices of some building materials.

In the building material market a prospect for the next few months of firmness with the possibility of price increases.

Fire Damage Suit To Be Resumed At Martinez Tuesday

Trial of the $619,000 damage suit of the Balfour-Guthrie company against the Great Western Power company, will be resumed in Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie's court on Tuesday. Postponement until then was ordered by Judge McKenzie after testimony of F. H. Kippel, superintendent of the power company in the Port Costa district, had been heard on Friday.

The case is the outgrowth of the burning of a Port Costa warehouse in September, 1924, in which the plaintiff lost 5000 tons of grain.

The Balfour-Guthrie company claims that the fire was started by faulty transformers of the power company. The attorneys for the defendants are endeavoring to prove that the transformers were in good working order during the time that Kippel, the superintendent, was in charge of the district.

Motorists Are Warned to Get New License

Yesterday all California motorists were warned by the Division of Motor Vehicles that there is only one week left in which 1926 licenses and certificates may be procured without a penalty being imposed.

All applications received after midnight of Saturday, January 30th, will be subject to a penalty equal to the amount of the regular fee. All motorists who have not as yet made application for theirs, are now urged to send in their application.

Having pointed out the law it is found that every tardy motorist will have no alternative and therefore will be subject to the penalty. Nearly one-third of California's motorists have not applied for their new plates, a check by the officials showed yesterday. Thus it means that in order to avoid delinquency, nearly half a million motorists must apply within the next week.

FIREMAN BURNED

Ernest Gianelli, fireman at the Associated Oil refinery at Olin, was burned by an overflow of hot residuum oil yesterday. After being given first aid at the company receiving station he was taken to the Martinez hospital for treatment.

Dirt Truck Holds Up Street Cars

A heavy truck, loaded with dirt overturned on the Grand Canyon Key system carline yesterday morning, tying up the traffic on that line for some time.

According to the report, the heavy truck skidded on the wet street and swung on the tracks, smashing its front wheel and dumping the load of dirt on the tracks. The dirt had to be shoveled away before traffic could resume. The truck was moved by a wrecking car.

Passengers on the line coming east of Thirty Eight street were forced to walk around the dirt and take a car west of the obstruction making this point, temporarily, the end of the line.

Local Milk Law Threatened by Hayward Decision

Dr. W. H. Moebus, a representative of the Oakland Milk Dealers' association, was in Richmond Friday evening to speak before the Richmond Milk Dealers' association. He spoke on the advantage in the operation of a milk bottle exchange such as used in the city of Los Angeles. He stated that 25,000 and 30,000 bottles are handled through the exchange there daily, saving thousands of dollars to the dealer and consumers, and that it is a most efficient and practical method.

Dr. Moebus gave an explanation of how the quality of milk was lowered by a milk war such as waged in the Alameda county cities for months. He warned the dealers that with prices cut "to the bone" the quality of the product cannot remain at a high standard.

The milk ordinance of Hayward, which is similar to one enacted in Richmond, and which provides that all milk pasteurized for use must be pasteurized within five miles of the city hall, is now being attacked in the courts by Hayward officials. Secretary Hall W. Sanders stated that the decision of the court in the Hayward case will vitally effect the ordinance here in Richmond, although no occasion has arisen to attack the one here.

In 1918 Cardinal Mercier wrote a denunciation of the spoilation of the Belgium churches and the deportation of Belgians to Germany. His secretary and other members of his entourage were sent to jail. He was refused safe conduct on returning from his visits to the Pope and when he applied for permission to journey from Mechlin to Brussels in the second year of the war he was not allowed to hire a carriage and had to walk most of the way.

The aged cardinal came to America in 1919. He visited New York and Boston, and spoke at Harvard University. He praised the generosity of the American people for their contributions to shell-wrecked Belgium.

A bust of the cardinal was unveiled at the New York university in October, 1919. He won his way into the hearts of all who met him.

A tall man, 6 feet, 2 inches, of spare frame, with a keen, yet gentle face, and kindly voice, Cardinal Mercier was the fighting prelate. No churchman ever fought a more unyielding battle for a nobler cause. He went to his death in a halo of glory to receive the benediction of that one whom he served so long.

three daughters, who became nuns. Her second son, Leon, was a doctor.

Mercier took his degrees in arts and theology at the University of Louvain in July, 1877, and was appointed professor of philosophy at the Petit-Seminaire of Malines. He had been ordained on April 4, 1874. Five years later the Abbe Mercier was called to the Thomas Aquinas chair of philosophy at Louvain. In 1887 he was elevated to Monsignor and in 1892 he created the Seminaire Leon XIII.

Monsignor Mercier was consecrated Archbishop of Malines, March 25, 1906. A year later was created Cardinal-Priest and received the red hat with the title of Saint-Pierre-Matthieu on April 18, 1907.

He was pastor of a diocese of 2,300,000. Then came the World War. He became the hero of Belgium. He stood out, a lone figure, against the German hordes. He saw his fellowmen shot like dogs. He saw families separated and sent to Germany to work like slaves.

It was at the first war Christmas, in 1914, that Cardinal Mercier sent out his famous pastoral letter, to be read in every church in Belgium. "Germany violated her oath," charged the cardinal. "We can neither number our dead nor compute the measure of our pain. Thousands of Belgium citizens have been deported to prison in Germany. Hundreds of innocent men were shot. In my Diocese alone it is known that 13 priests were put to death. Occupied provinces are not conquered provinces."

Over and over again, throughout the war, the aged cardinal challenged the mailed fist with his pen. In January 1916, at an audience with the Pope, Cardinal Mercier submitted sworn deposition concerning 137 Belgium priests put to death by the Germans.

In 1918 Cardinal Mercier wrote a denunciation of the spoilation of the Belgium churches and the deportation of Belgians to Germany. His secretary and other members of his entourage were sent to jail. He was refused safe conduct on returning from his visits to the Pope and when he applied for permission to journey from Mechlin to Brussels in the second year of the war he was not allowed to hire a carriage and had to walk most of the way.

Philadelphia Develops New Bus To Solve Problem

Philadelphia had been almost wrecked by financial juggling and strikes. It is purely a business management. The city exercises jurisdiction over it.

As the evolution of the traffic problem proceeded in Philadelphia, and congestion increased, and trolley cars lost their effectiveness, the Mitten management turned to the bus and began making surveys and experiments.

It decided at once that motor buses in large numbers would greatly decrease congestion in busy streets, and would also afford fast service to the suburbs not served by L lines or subways.

However it was not satisfied with the accepted type of bus which is in use in Chicago and New York at the present time.

It hired engineers to investigate passenger bus construction, with a view toward designing a bus with a very long life and very low upkeep cost.

The result was the bus now being introduced in such large numbers in the downtown section of Philadelphia.

It is of the gas-electric type. A six-cylinder gasoline engine constructed to last almost indefinitely, supplies power to an electric drive apparatus.

There is almost no loss of power in transmission from the gas motor to the electric motor and from the electric motor to the driving wheels, on the contrary, there is a tremendous gain in efficiency and smoothness and speed.

The bus accelerates like a steam car or an electric car. There are no gears to shift. The acceleration is smooth, continuous, and fast. It is free from the noise, clashing gears, stresses and strains of the mechanical drive bus. The engine will not stall under any circumstances.

With the bus at rest, it is possible to open the gas throttle wide without stalling or straining the mechanism. There is only a smooth, swift acceleration.

The advantage of this in heavy traffic is most obvious. Already in Philadelphia this new system of ultra-modern type buses is remarkably popular with the riding public. Although these buses have been in service only a few months, they are already doing a business of about 1,500,000 revenue rides a month.

They make exceedingly fast time through traffic.

They seat 65 passengers, are double decked, have the stairway leading to the upper deck inside the bus. The upper deck has a convertible roof.

These buses reduce bus operating expense very greatly, according to P. R. T. engineers.

The fare on these buses is 10 cents.

T. E. Mitten, chairman of the executive committee of the P. R. T. says: "The fact that motor buses increase the capacity of city streets is well illustrated by the fact, ascertained by survey engineers, that 68 bus passengers occupy about the same street space as four private automobile passengers."

Buses, operating every three minutes on Broad street, would constitute less than 3 per cent of all vehicles using this street, and operate about 3 per cent of the total mileage, while carrying at capacity almost half the total riders.

"Every American city is faced today with an alarming traffic problem. One way by which this problem can be solved is by giving the private automobilist a more convenient and cheaper method of transportation—a transportation that is at the same time fast, dependable and comfortable. A regular bus service appeals to every economical motorist, as well as to every competent city planner."

Congestion of city streets is a problem which can be ameliorated by cities and transit companies working in cooperation to clear streets of streetcar tracks in down-town districts, and by the operation of motor buses to pick up and leave passengers at the curb, thereby decreasing congestion and accidents."

SUPERIORITY too Great to be Overtaken

Today Chrysler is talked about and desired with even greater eagerness than two years ago, when it brought the first new note to motoring efficiency in years.

Chrysler was first to sweep old traditions aside. The new kind of performance, comfort and beauty which Chrysler created, captivated the public and exerted a tremendous influence on all motor car developments since that time.

But even the past two years have not brought any other car abreast of Chrysler.

Chrysler, meanwhile, has developed its own new measures of manufacturing fineness, new features of extraordinary equipment, new superiorities of performance and new standards of riding and driving ease—in the Chrysler "70" and the Chrysler "58" as well as in the new and superfine Chrysler Imperial "80".

The world has given recognition to outstanding Chrysler superiorities with a volume of popularity that sweeps beyond any previous height.

The purchase by the public of more than 280 million dollars' worth of cars of Chrysler manufacture during the first two years of Chrysler history takes premier rank among the industry's most brilliant achievements.

The Chrysler Corporation promises that the emphatic superiority which is the foundation of this overwhelming success, will be kept as far in advance as it is today.
